As a local provider of both community health and mental health services, we are pleased to offer GP practices in Bexley, Bromley and Greenwich the opportunity to book free seminars. These one hour sessions have been developed in response to GP feedback and can be held in your practice at a time convenient to you.

A focus on older people’s mental health
a series of five in-practice seminars available to book, to support GPs’ continuing professional development.

Seminar 1: Dementia
Overview: Identification, referral and what our teams and services do. How does the memory service work.

Seminar 2: Managing distress and challenging behaviour in dementia
Overview: How do we diagnose the causes of challenging behaviour in people with dementia and what are the best treatments. When should we and when should we not use anti-psychotics.

Seminar 3: Palliative care of advanced dementia
Overview: Managing and supporting people with advanced dementia and developing a more palliative approach to people with advanced dementia.

Seminar 4: Mental capacity, choice and imposing care
Overview: Mental Capacity Act, consent to treatment, imposing treatment and the challenges GPs face. Flu jabs, covert medication, how to manage long capacity assessments in care homes.

Seminar 5: Depression and psychosis in older people
Overview: Identification of symptoms of depression and anxiety in older people and how this may impact on long term conditions. The management of depression and anxiety in primary care.

These seminars have been developed by clinicians from our Older People’s Mental Health Service to help you manage patients with mental health problems within your practice. We will also provide advice on the support available to you, your patient and their carers from Oxleas’ services and more widely.
